Theme of the FDP

The unprecedented changes in the Information technology and dynamic crosscultural environment, have influenced the student community, their aspirations, preferences, priorities and attitude towards Life, Work, World, Self and Others around them.

We find the students study habits have undergone a considerable change, reflected in reduced visits to libraries, a general attitude of indifference towards various things. They seem to prefer Google (which does not always give the authenticity of the uploaded information), listen from audio/video lessons, take pictures of the matter on the Board, and from presentations, etc. Teacher-taught relationships are undergoing change. Accordingly, getting a student to the Class has become a challenge; retaining him in the class has become a bigger challenge, and inspiring him to concentrate on the academic aspects has become the real challenge. Passing the examinations, has become relatively easy. The importance of conceptual clarity and application aspects of what is learnt - which are very essential for their career – is not getting the attention it deserves.

In the absence of a healthy and regular interaction between the teacher and the taught, students are becoming vulnerable to the distracting social media, mass media, unguided peer group interactions resulting in a less disciplined society. Many a time, students expectations exceed their capacity to perform resulting in failures in Job Market - leading to frustrations and even suicides. While the job markets are expanding in private sector, the students search for Government jobs. All such confusions arise due to lack of proper guidance and reduced importance of regularity of attendance in the colleges.

To meet these challenges, Dhanwantari Institute of Science and Technology, Tilaknagar, Hyderabad, a skill development institute and the Indian Institute of Management and Commerce, Lakdikapul, Hyderabad, have planned to jointly organise a Faculty Development Program on the subject “Challenges of Teachers in inspiring the Students” as an interactive session with renowned experts in the field of Personality Development.

The program is scheduled on Wednesday, the June 27, 2018, between 2 pm and 5 pm. This timely and useful program is free for all Degree college/ Post Graduate College teachers. However, prior registration is a must. As the seats are limited, you are requested to register early.
